Q.1 Read the following passage carefully and answers the questions given below-

Character is one of the greatest powers in the world. In its noblest embodiment, it exemplifies human nature in its highest form, for it exhibits man at his best, men of genuine excellence in every station of life, men of industry, of integrity, of high principle, of sterling honesty of purpose command the spontaneous homage of mankind. It is natural to believe in such men, to have confidence in them ,and to imitate them. All that is good in the world is upheld by them and without their presence in it, the world not be worth living in. Although genius always commands admiration, character secures respect.

The former is more the product, of brain power, the latter of heart power, and in the long run it is heart that rules in life. Men of genius stand to society. In the relation of its intellect, as men of character of its conscience, and while the former are admired the latter are followed.

Great men are always exceptional. Men and greatness itself is best cooperative. Indeed the range of most men in life is so limited that very few have the opportunity of being great. But each man can act his part honestly and honourably and to the best of his ability. He can strive, make the best of life. He can be true, just honest and faithful even in small things. In a word, he can do his duty in the sphere in which providence has placed him.

(2) Read the passage carefully and make notes on it.

Trees give shade for the benefit of others and while they themselves stand in the sun and endure scorching heat. They produce the fruit by which others profit. The character of good men is like that of trees. What is the use of this perishable body if no use is made of it for the benefit of mankind? Sandalwood, the more it is rubbed the more scent does it yields.

Sugarcane, the more it is peeled and cut into pieces, the more juice does it produces. The men who are noble at heart do not lose their qualities even in losing their lives. What matters is whether men praise them or not. What difference does it make whether they die at this moment or whether their lives are prolonged? Happen what may those who tread in the right path will not set foot in any other path. Life itself is unprofitable to a man who lives for the mere sake of living one's life to live the life of dogs and crows. Those who lay down their lives for sake of others will assuredly do well forever in a world of bliss.
