Section A

Q1. Read the passage and answer the questions given below :-

We do not know whether suitable physical conditions are enough in themselves to produce life. Some scientists think that as the earth gradually became cooler, it was natural and indeed almost unavoidable, that life should come. Others believe that it was an accident, which brought the earth into being, and that another accident was necessary to produce life. The materials of which living body is composed are ordinary chemical atoms-Carbon, such as we find in water; nitrogen, as we find in air, and so on. Every kind of atom necessary for life must have existed on the new born earth. At times a group of atoms might happen to arrange themselves in the way in which they are arranged in the living cell. Indeed, if they were given enough time, they would certainly do so, just as six monkeys set to work on type writers for millions and millions of years would be certain in time to type out by chance all the books in the British museum.
