In July 1976, my wife Mary, son Jonathan, 6, daughter Suzanne, 7, and I set sail from Plymouth, England, to duplicate the round the-world voyage made 200 years earlier by Captain James Cook. For the longest time, Mary and I — a 37-year-old businessman — had dreamt of sailing in the wake of the famous explorer, and for the past 16 years we had spent all our leisure time honing our seafaring skills in British waters.

I was born into a middle-class Tamil family in the island town of Rameshwaram in the erstwhile Madras State. My father, Jainulabdeen, had neither much formal education nor much wealth; despite these disadvantages, he possessed great innate wisdom and a true generosity of spirit.

He had an ideal helpmate in my mother, Ashiamma. I do not recall the exact number of people she fed every day, but I am quite certain that far more outsiders ate with us than all the members of our own family put together.

I was one of many children — a short boy with rather undistinguished looks, born to tall and handsome parents. We lived in our ancestral house, which was built in the middle of nineteenth century.

Questions:-

- 1.What is the name of the child's father ?
- 2.Describe the physique of the child?
3. Where was he born?

- 5.Write the antonym of 'tall' from the passage .

Q.3- Read the following poem carefully and answer the questions that follow.

The cardboard shows me how it was
When the two girl cousins went paddling
Each one holding one of my mother's hands,
And she the big girl – some twelve years or so.
All three stood still to smile through their hair
At the uncle with the camera, A sweet face
My mother's, that was before I was born
And the sea, which appears to have changed less
Washed their terribly transient feet.

Questions:-

(5)

- 1.Write the name of the poet and the poem .
- 2.How many members went to the beach ?
- 3.Who did the girls smile at ?
